The latest updates from one of the UK's leading independent, family-run suppliers

Clark Howe (MD)

The week before the easing of the restrictions we spotted one of our team had a high temperature (we do daily checks first thing in the morning), we sent them home and later it was confirmed, after testing that they had Covid.

This happened on Friday the 9th of June and over the course of the weekend I watched the text messages and emails come in from some of the team who had been pinged (including my Son, Harry who is getting some work experience before starting 6th Form in September).

So the week starting Monday the 12th was going to be a struggle as we already had various staff on their holidays - I need not have worried, as just like other challenging times we pulled together and just got on with what needed to be done.

I very much hope you didn't notice that were not quite as responsive as we normally would be.

Graceful on the surface...

I would like to think we looked graceful on the surface, but I can assure you we were peddling like a swan underneath.

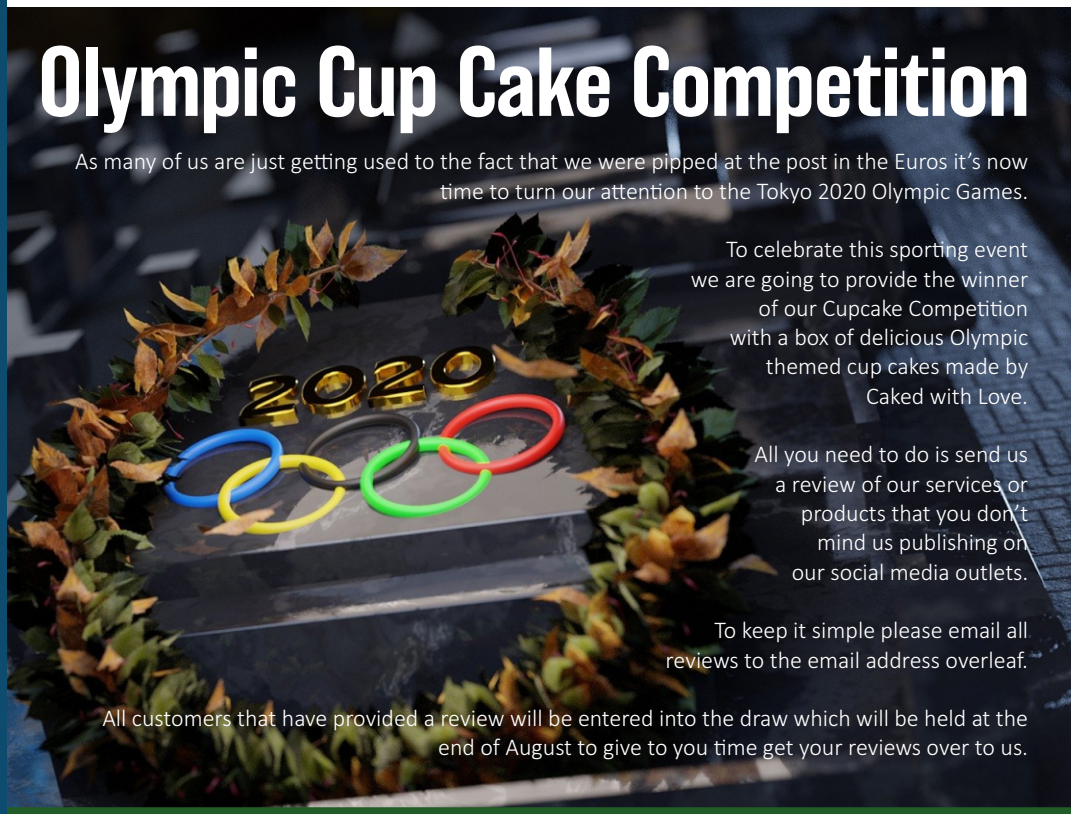

It's only the 2nd time since the start of the pandemic where we have had staff isolating and on both occasions none of the team that had been "pinged" went on to develop Covid.

Unfortunately the app doesn't take into consideration the common sense of the average human being, instead going for a rather blanket approach.

Importantly everyone made it back in good health!

Up the Garden Bath

Up The Garden Bath are a Community Interest Company- they take old & discarded materials such as bathtubs & upcycle them into ready made garden planters & accessories.

They strive to use 100% recycled, unwanted materials to ensure a quality finish in a range of wood styles & colours.

They are looking for organisations who want to help their local schools. Businesses can now help their local schools by sponsoring one of their up cycled bathtub planters. School budgets are constantly being reduced & it is becoming harder & harder for schools to fund outdoor activities. To ease the burden on school budgets they encourage local businesses to help.

Their service underpins the vital contribution that schools make to develop and strengthen students, understanding of the importance of healthy eating, recycling & sustainability. They recognise that schools face many challenges in addressing these needs and they aim to provide support to schools to further develop their work in educating students in these areas.

Their activity workshops are designed to be stimulating whilst retaining their educational value. Up The Garden Bath is working in coordination with primary schools and early years services in the region to adopt a positive approach towards recycling, gardening, healthy eating and nutrition.

If you are interested in supporting Up the Garden Bath please visit their website or Facebook page.

Howsafe were delighted to be able to donate loads of gloves, safety footwear & clothing - Dave from Up the Garden Bath even jumped into our skip and pulled out half a dozen tyres which will be diverted away from landfill and converted into planters.
