10K Clothing Donation

During the last few months we have been looking closely to identify static stock (stuff that's not moving, forgotten about and perhaps, un-loved).

A large quantity of clothing, made up of discontinued lines and unwanted special orders- totalling £10,000 has been highlighted.

For much of the stock their were options to try to sell via various outlets, however, I am delighted to be able to announce that we have decided to donate all of this stock to Barnado's - many of the products will work their way out to their network of charity shops and all of the money raised will go towards their vital work with vulnerable children and young people.

Believe in children Barnardo's

We are committed at Howsafe to continue to support our local community and beyond.

Stock Woes Continue

I know I keep on banging on about stock availability - and it doesn't get any easier.

Virtually every order I place arrives part shipped, suppliers that used to be next day are now 3-4 days, many that were 3-5 days are now 2-3 weeks and as I sit here writing this I have four outstanding Cofra back orders- the earliest being six weeks old and my footwear shelves are looking worryingly bare (I hope by the time this lands with you this will all be resolved).

Back orders are now back up to just over 20% of total stock value - to try to counteract the short supply I have once again notched up my supplier stock holding re-order levels.

Please be patient with my team- they are doing all they can under difficult circumstances.
